Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick
YELEOPOMAZANIA

I was upset that my mother wanted me to call Father when she was taken to hospital by ambulance. Her medications were off balance but I knew it wasn't life threatening. I didn't want her to think she was dying! She still says she wants Yeleopomazania; should I call Father?

Yes! You are not alone in your confusion about this sacrament of anointing. It is often mistaken for what is called "last rites" in the Roman Rite (viaticum: eucharist for one who is about to die). But Yeleopomazania means anointing with holy oil. It is a sacrament of forgiveness and healing for those who are unwell in body, mind, or spirit.

"Are any among you sick? They should call for the elders of the Church and have them pray over them, anointing them with oil in the name of the Lord. And their prayer offered in faith will heal the sick, and the Lord will make them well. And if they have committed sins, these will be forgiven." (Matthew 10:8, Luke 10:8-9 and Mark 6:13)

Illness can make us feel exceptionally isolated and vulnerable. Yeleopomazania reminds us that we are not alone—Christ is with us and so too is our community of Faith. The oil is a sign of God's presence, forgiveness, and strength. The anointing of the body sanctifies her/his suffering by uniting it to the suffering of Christ.

Official Church teaching expresses the grace of the Sacrament of Yeleopomazania as:

- the uniting of the sick person to the passion of Christ, for her/his own good and that of the whole Church;
- the strengthening, peace, and courage to endure in a Christian manner the sufferings of illness or old age;
- the forgiveness of sins, if the sick person was not able to obtain it through the sacrament of Penance;
- the restoration of health, if it is conducive to the salvation of her/his soul;
- the preparation for passing over to eternal life.
